Saying Good-bye

Goodbye means parting ways with a person, leaving him/her forever or both. Saying goodbye to a loved one is a painful thing when you are parting ways, let it even be for the shortest of time. Hold on! Saying goodbye doesn't always need to be sad and unwanted as 'goodbye' can also be for a short while; as a promise that also says "see you later". A universal feeling, learning to say 'goodbye' in different languages is a great way to wish the departing person more warmly. Learning to say goodbye in different languages can also work as a good conversation starter, just like the hellos and thank you.

There are many ways to say goodbye. Read this to learn how to say them and impress your friends.

How to say goodbye

There are lots of different phrases and expressions we can use when we want to say goodbye to people - find out what they are and when to use them!

I'm off!
OK, All right, Well then, Right then, Anyway,	(guys,) (folks,) (everyone,)	it's time to let's we should I'm going to we're going to	make a move. head off. go. leave you.

---	--	--------------------------------------

At a party in someone's home, for example, it's crucial to say goodbye to the host or hostess before you leave. If the host happens not to be available at the moment that you want to leave - perhaps because he's talking on the telephone - you should wait until you have an opportunity to say goodbye. Now it's time for you to practice the language we've looked at in this programme.
